

A Survivors Closet

One of the most unbelievable child abuse stories in Missouri history! ...a heart throbbing, gripping child abuse story that you just cant stop reading... Debra Luptaks first non-fiction is a miraculous true story that exposes her childhood life as she was faced with daily torment and several times nearly killed by her mother. Living with her mothers hatred, Debra was brutally tortured, beat and confined to a small dark closet. Debras inner determination and perseverance kept her filled with courage if she was to survive her mothers persistence that she was a devils child. After years of attempted suffocations, a straitjacket, cigarette burns, electrical shocks from a cattle prod, forced to eat horse manure, fed adult sedatives to keep her immobile, the incidents continued to be life threatening for Debra, forcing her to flee into the deserts of Arizona in an attempt to escape and survive her mother and step-father. Search no more for a non-fiction, edge of your seat story that ends with four chapters of a very powerful message of love, hope and inspiration for every reader, you have just found the perfect book. This must read true story contains elements of suspense, shocking experiences and the journey of life struggles for internal peace as the author shares her extraordinary autobiography that has never been revealed until now 40-years later.
